The golden anniversary of the Wedding Boom before the Baby Boom

By ALISON ALOISIO

Richard Nixon, a Congressman from California, was named by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the Outstanding Young Men of 1947.

Bethel voters went to Town Meeting and approved a budget with a total assessment of $100,000.

A Soviet general "hinted at a new Red curb on air traffic between Berlin and the Western occupation zone," according to the Bethel Citizen.

A coal strike necessitated the removal of four weekly passenger trains that passed through Bethel.

A "Veterans' Question Box" was a regular feature in the Citizen; President Harry S. Truman ordered the peacetime draft registration of young men between the ages of 18 and 25.

Gov. Thomas Dewey of New York was the unanimous choice of the Republican National Convention to run for president. When Truman beat him in November, the Citizen noted that "Bethel, Oxford County and Maine went Republican as usual."

The year was 1948. And in addition to those noteworthy news items, it was also a significant year for many young couples, both locally and across the United States.

They got married.

Celebrating fifty years together

The rate of marriages nationwide grew significantly in 1946, and stayed relatively high for the next two years, as servicemen returned from World War II.

The numbers, according to federal statistics: In 1946 there were 2,291,045 weddings, compared with 1,452,394 in 1945. In 1947 and 1948, 1,991,878 and 1,811,155 couples tied the knot, respectively. It would be 1972 before marriages again matched the numbers of 1946.

Circulation figures hold steady at local libraries

Following steep decline in mid-1980s

By ALISON ALOISIO

Fifteen years ago, library books faced a formidable challenge from cable TV and other video entertainment in vying for the attention of Bethel-area readers. In some of the smaller town libraries, technology seemed to gain the edge, as book circulation dropped in the mid-1980s -- in Andover, for instance, borrowing declined by one-third from 1982 to 1986.

Now, in 1998, add to the challenge the widespread use and availability of computers and the Internet. How are the books faring today?

It seems to vary by library.

In Bethel, book circulation in the mid-1980s held fairly steady at 16,000 to 17,000 books per year, according to Betsy Raymond, librarian at the time.

In 1997-98, book circulation was 20,173, as reported by Michelle Conroy, librarian for the past three years. The number of cardholders has also shown a sizeable increase -- from 2,100 in 1991 to 3,216 in 1998.

Conroy does not see books losing out in competition with modern technology.

"People still want the books," she said, for pleasure reading. The impact of computers and the Internet, said Conroy, has mainly been felt in the research area. "They (library users) don't go into the hard copy for research anymore," she said.

The Whitman Memorial Library in Woodstock saw a significant

Raising the ambush tree

SETTING THE SCENE—Inside the former Moore chicken barn in Mayville, workers hoist into position a large tree that will be part of the scenery for a laser-tag arena, which developer Bill Dunton hopes to have open by Christmas Vacation. Also planned for the site are a rock-climbing wall, function rooms, and — if the Bethel Planning Board gives its approval — an 18-hole miniature-golf course. In the photo are, from left: site manager Chris Hayward (on the tree), Dunton, Maurice Hart (ladder) and Dave Zeboski.

Rock-climbing wall will join laser-tag arena

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Why did the chicken climb the wall?

To "develop trust" -- get to the other side of his fears?

Wall climbing is certainly safer than scaling the real thing, and a good way for wannabee rock climbers and those of us who are "chicken" about heights to push the envelope a bit.

Too tame?

Well, for the more competitively inclined there will also be laser tag, a high-tech shootout in which players are not "eliminated," but instead learn from computers at the end of a match who has the bragging rights and who needs to work on their sharpshooting.

All in an old chicken barn.

The Bethel Planning Board approved an amendment allowing Bill Dunton to add a 24-foot high climbing wall to the Big Adventure Center, which is currently under development at the intersection of Route 2 and the Northwest Bethel Road.

In September the board approved a site plan application for the construction of a laser-tag arena in the former chicken barn at the site, which had belonged to Susan and the late Stan Moore.

Dunton told the Planning Board Tuesday that the target market for the adventure center would be both skiers and local people, coming in groups and as individuals.

Two function rooms (also approved by the board Tuesday) could be used for catering to birthday parties or corporate

Telstar High School's accreditation renewed

By ALISON ALOISIO

Telstar High School's accreditation with the New England Association of Schools & Colleges has been continued, the SAD44 School Board learned Monday.

The organization, in cooperation with school teaching staffs, reviews the performance of high schools every 10 years.

The district received a report, dated Oct. 26, that listed both commendations for Telstar's strengths and recommendations for areas needing improvement. The school will be required to submit a follow-up report by July 1 regarding plans to address the recommendations.

"There were no surprises," principal Ted Davis told directors. "We're pleased that our accreditation has been continued."

Davis said Wednesday he believes the accreditation process is an important one because "it tells colleges and universities that there are standards that are being met."

Telstar's approval is a "significant accomplishment," in the words of NEASC associate director Janet Allison. Given several factors, including the tighter budget constraints many schools have faced in recent years, achieving accreditation can be "more challenging" than in the more distant past, Allison said Tuesday.

Of 685 NEASC member secondary schools in New England, 25 are currently on accreditation probation, including Bonny Eagle, Cony and Dexter high schools in Maine.

A SHOW OF NAIVETE

To the Editor:

It seems the proposed park for northern Maine has created a tag "letter to the editor." I'd like to join in and answer Beth Wheatley's recent letter. She is a strong supporter of government ownership. Ms. Wheatley shows her naivete when she states the park will "ensure our freedom to access." To the contrary, government land is almost always more restricted than private land here in the Northeast. Private landowners overwhelmingly like to share their land with others because they like it so much and because there is tremendous public pressure on them to keep their land open. Government land management, on the other hand, is too often influenced these days by green special interests, resulting in the elimination of many traditional land uses and the creation of restrictions on most other uses. All Ms. Wheatley has to do is to go to any existing park to see that this is true.

Ms. Wheatley really gets out of her element when she claims a park would help create jobs. She needs to compare employment in northern Maine with employment in the Adirondack Park area of New York state, which has a lot of park land. Charts in the most recent issue of "Evergreen Magazine," based on government facts, point out that the Maine area has four times the percentage of high-paying forest industry jobs. The percentage of jobs in the park-related sector is about the same, but the government job percentage in the New York area is a whopping three and one-half times higher. This hardly seems like a good tradeoff, considering wood product jobs make useful products and generate economic growth, something "excess" government jobs can't do.

This notion that locking up land saves it for "future generations" is bizarre. Along with restricting our use, we arrogantly restrict the use of those in the future. We call land lockups "savings" when too often they destroy previously healthy forests and wildlife habitat (Adirondack's deer population is much lower than Maine's because of the lack of harvesting).

Apparently, some people have an illogical need to know land is locked up in government ownership in order to enjoy it. The rest of us pay the price in higher taxes, in lost meaningful employment and in lost recreational opportunities.

LIFELONG LEARNING INVITATION

To the Editor:

On Thursday, Nov. 19, the College for Lifelong Learning will hold two open houses in Bethel. The public is invited from 2:30 to 4 p.m. at Sunday River South Ridge and from 5 to 6:30 p.m. at the Moses Mason House. I will present information and answer questions about the college, and an admissions counselor will take appointments to get people started in the application process. Those wishing to meet with the counselor should call ahead to make an appointment, (603) 752-4224. Otherwise, they can just stop in to see what CLL has to offer.

Why the College for Lifelong Learning? This arm of the University System of New Hampshire specializes in programming for adults and offers classes in Gorham, N.H., only half an hour from Bethel. It holds special promise for those who have secret yearnings to finally complete that associate degree started many years ago; are deciding it might be about time to start a degree program; are contemplating a move from an associate degree into a bachelor's degree.

Everyone is encouraged to visit us on the 19th and inquire about our numerous programming and scheduling options designed to help adults earn an undergraduate degree. Participants will find out how to structure a program to meet their own unique career or educational needs if their goals do not fit into our traditional management, behavioral science, healthcare, criminal justice or other degrees.

For example, participants will find out what makes CLL a perfect fit for Sharon Hutchins. An Andover resident and SAD44 employee, Sharon is presently working on the assessment of prior learning, which she hopes will grant numerous credits for a couple of decades of experiential learning. She'll proceed to a self-design bachelor's degree with CLL.

CLL is also looking for instructors for a variety of courses. People who can teach at the college level, are asked to check us out -- Thursday, Nov. 19, at Sunday River or the Moses Mason House.

OUTING CLUB SALE THANKS

To the Editor:

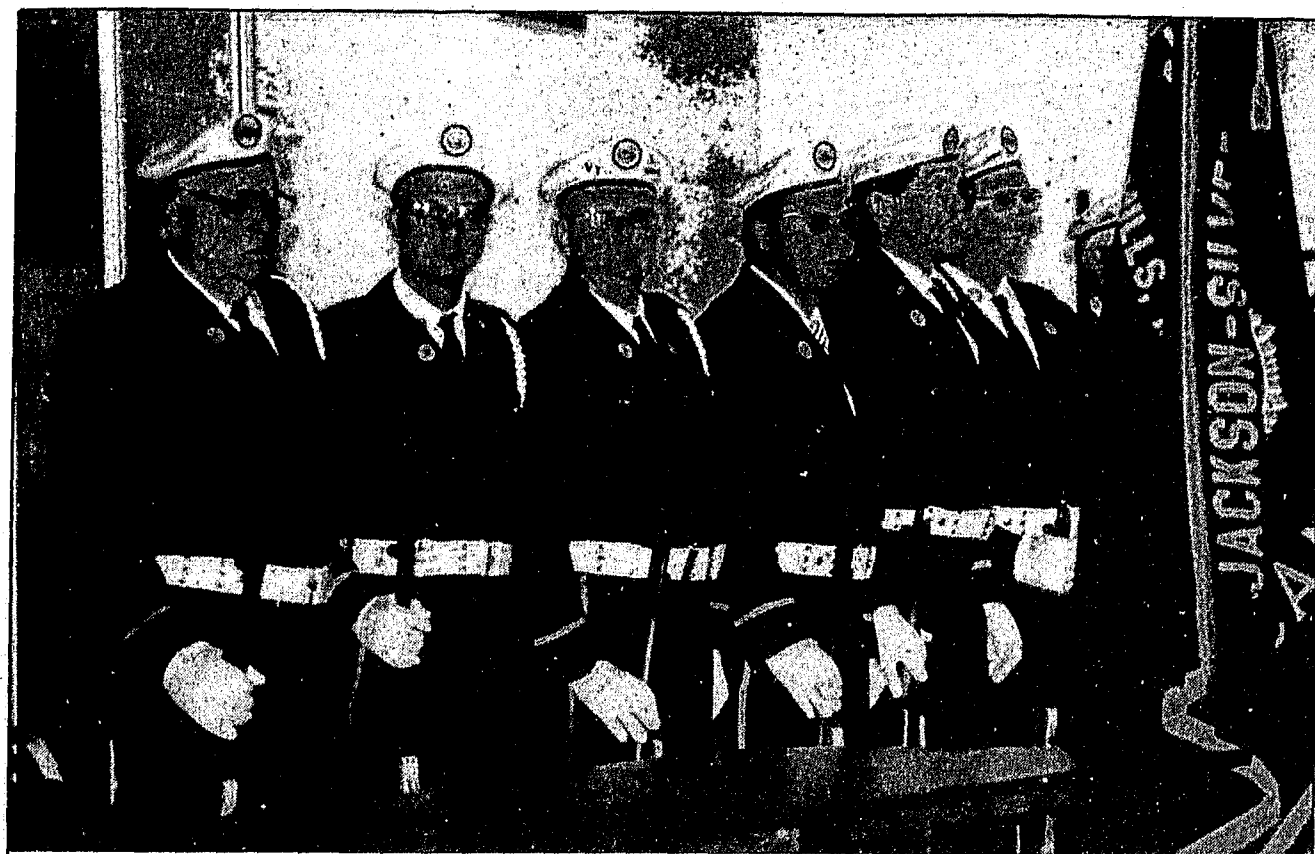

The Bethel Outing Club has successfully concluded its 18th annual Ski Sale. As people walked through the doors of the Gould Field House, they found approximately 4,000 new and used cross-country, alpine and snowboard equipment and clothing from shops throughout Maine and New Hampshire. Thanks to Outward Bound, more adventurous individuals could purchase sleeping bags, Mickey Mouse boots, crampons and other winter camping equipment.

This sale never could have happened if it wasn't for the volunteers. I want to send a special thanks to Gould for hosting the event, Telstar Middle and High School students who labored throughout Friday to set up, Oxford Hills students who gave up a Saturday afternoon to clean up, and all the adults who freely gave of their time to make this happen. Kudos to all.

BOOSTERS NEED A BOOST

To the Editor:

The Telstar Athletic Boosters needs new members. We are right now only a three-member group and definitely need more people in order to keep this organization going.

I will be leaving the community in the next year and want to be sure that this group keeps existing.

There will be an important meeting on Nov. 17, at 7 p.m. in the high school library for anyone interested.

The Coronation of King Angus

By MIKE BROWN

The Independents are happy. The Democrats are jubilant. The media is joyously self-impressed. Their man Angus, Maine's political lion king, has been enthroned as ditto governor of the State of Two Maines.

And once again with a sycophantic Democratic majority Legislature, King will be a Republican-disenfranchise budget threat to any minority tax cutting Republican initiatives in the 119th Legislature. With the same liberal-majority Legislature that has increased the state budget half a billion dollars in the past two years, once again, spending will be rampant.

Some 3,000 new bills come before the new Legislature and almost all will require funding. The Republican minority, as during the first King Administration, will be helpless to stop the spending of increasing tax revenues. King in his first inaugural promised to reduce taxes and provide economic security. Instead, Mainers are now the fourth highest taxed citizens in the country (up from 8th) and among the lowest of incomes.

And it can be expected that the state's mainstream media will again be shamefully acting as King lobbyist instead of objective news organizations.

So how did Angus King get nearly 60 percent of the gubernatorial vote? It's fairly simple.

The media has been shilling for King over the past four years with scant mention of King's political gimmicks and aberrations such as disenfranchising the Republicans, nearly half the Legislature, from the budget process.

Also, such as the stifling of all Maine citizens by refusing to send some $138 million of State House and prison bonds to referendum. It was King's bill, enacted by Democrats, that created this gimmicking, and even perhaps illegal, shunting of constitutional democracy.

When King was running for governor in 1993, he spoke before the Camden Rotary Club on gimmicks in government, specifically on selling 16 miles of the Maine Turnpike to "itself," the state government. King told the Rotarians, "That's illegal in private business. If you did that, you get a rather unfriendly call from the attorney general."

What a difference incumbency makes. Gov. King's $138 gimmick Grand Hoteling the State House and building a new prison by issuing bonds not through the constitutionally provided public referendum, but solely on the legislative majority (Democrats) order and then paying the bonds off by the Legislature as State House "tenants" using the state's general fund to amortize the debt.

Perhaps somebody should have called the attorney general.

The media failed miserably in not investigating King's four-year ongoing, and perhaps illegal, "Making a Difference" coalition which was really a political action committee raising funds while an incumbent. Some $40,000 was collected but the media ignored the unique PAC which the ethics commission staff questioned as to its legality.

King's fundraising coalition was cozy with KHS, Inc. of Brunswick whose principals were the governor and his wife. KHS was totally integrated with King's coalition doing bookkeeping services and charging rent, phone, mailing and other services in support of the governor and his administration over the past years.

Jacqueline Hewitt, wife of King's former chief of staff, Chuck Hewitt, became a weekly $1,038 employee of the coalition and whose prime responsibility was to write, edit and mail a brochure which asked for donations to MDC in amounts ranging from $25 to $500.

This was happening right under the noses of especially the State House press, which refused to investigate and publish the full story.

With a plausibly illegal ongoing four-year fundraiser in operation, with King's millions received from Central Maine Power in some kind of buy-out of his neophyte energy company (raising his potential political war chest of a Pine Tree Legal indigent attorney to an overnight multi-millionaire) and the state media in his pocket, no wonder that neither Republicans nor Democrats wanted to take on King in this year's election.

And so when King runs on his forte, populist ceremonial mush, he wins. But his popularity is enhanced by the media, which fails at election time to mention that when King runs on specific substantial issues such as the forestry compact and gay rights, he gets hammered by the same public.

King is now a dangerous, big spender, political lame duck. But what is equally egregious is that the Democrats and the media especially have scalped their credibility heritage for a front row pew at the King coronation.

Briefly

Supt. contract extended

BETHEL--The SAD44 School Board Monday voted to extend by one year Supt. Kent Rosberg's contract, which will now run through June of 2003. His salary for the next two years, FY'00 and FY'01, will be $70,686 and $73,160, respectively. The latter figure represents a 3.5 per cent raise for the second year. Rosberg's health benefits for the two years will be $7,350 and $7,750, respectively.

Camp damaged by fire

WEST PARIS--A Tuell Town Road camp was heavily damaged Tuesday by a fire in the attic. The cause of the fire has not been officially determined, but mattresses had apparently been moved against a hot stove pipe in the attic by a crew renovating the building. The crew reported the fire. Firefighters from Paris and Sumner assisted the West Paris department.

Town approves pathway contract

BETHEL--Selectmen last week approved a contract with Taylor Engineering of Auburn to design a snowmobile pathway near the Bethel Station property. The engineering firm would be paid $65,500 to draw preliminary and final designs for the path, which would run from the area of Davis Park along the edge of Bethel Station and end at the Androscoggin River near the Route 2 bridge. A bridge for snowmobiles, bicycles and pedestrians might be added later, if funding becomes available.

100 to be laid off at Mead

RUMFORD--Mead Corp. plans to lay off as many as 105 union workers from its Rumford mill for three months -- the first such cutback in at least 15 years. Production will be cut back due to a weakening of the coated paper market and a drop in prices. The contract for Local 900 of the United Paperworkers Union calls for the most recently hired worker to be laid off first. A union spokesman said all workers hired after September 1996 would likely be affected. Mead permanently laid off 52 salaried workers last month.

Watershed council formed

BETHEL--Organizers last week formed the Androscoggin River Watershed Council, creating the first such organization in Maine that covers an entire major waterway. The council will work to encourage recreational and economic development that is environmentally friendly. A new steering committee comprised of representatives from state agencies, conservation and recreation organizations, industry and municipalities will meet in the next few weeks to begin organizational work.

Wal-Mart considers food store

OXFORD--The Wal-Mart Corporation has filed plans for a 50,000-square-foot Food Center at its Route 26 retail department store. The plans call for the store to be added to the north end of the existing 101,094-square-foot department store, creating a "SuperCenter." It would be the first such Wal-Mart complex in Maine. There are currently 20 retail stores in the state. If the plans are approved and the company decides to go ahead with the project, construction would likely begin next spring.

Girls' basketball programs offered

BETHEL--Girls in grades three through five at Crescent Park Elementary School are invited to participate in the Wednesday Rumford Recreation Girls' Basketball League. The league is highly competitive, and runs from Dec. 3 to mid March. Registration deadline is Nov. 19. For more information call 824-4237. A Saturday morning instructional program will also be offered at CPS, beginning Dec. 5, with registration required by Nov. 20. Call 824-3217.

Thanksgiving food drive

BETHEL--The Crescent Park School Student Council is sponsoring its annual November food drive. The food is collected at CPS and delivered to the Bethel Food Pantry. Every classroom has a box, and students are asked to contribute non-perishable goods. The boxes will be collected Nov. 24. Parents and others wishing to contribute may send food in with a student or drop it off at the school.

Recycling day at P.O.

ANDOVER--The Andover Post Office will hold a Recycling Open House today (Thursday), in recognition of the second annual America Recycles Day. The official recycle day is Sunday, Nov. 15. Postmaster Charles Cornwell will be available to demonstrate the office's recycling system, and selectman Wendy Green will also be on hand to answer questions about the town's recycling program. Students from the Andover Elementary School will also take part in the day's activities. The Post Office recycles more than 90 percent of its waste.

Check charity disaster appeals

BOSTON, Mass.--People considering making a donation to assist victims of recent disasters such as Hurricane Mitch are cautioned to carefully evaluate appeals for help. The Better Business Bureau of Eastern Massachusetts, Maine and Vermont last week released a statement saying the organization is not currently aware of any specific fraudulent appeals. It is not unusual, however, for charity pitches to be made in the wake of disasters, and fraudulent solicits may take advantage of people's compassion. Reports about individual charities are available by calling the BBB at (617) 426-9000, or on the Internet at www.bosbbb.org.

Attitash plans projects

ROCHESTER, Vt.--Attitash/Bear Peak is proposing to extend its alpine slide by 500 feet -- 200 of which would be on National Forest System lands. The ski resort is also seeking to expand a special use permit area to allow construction of a ski trail. The U.S. Forest Service will require an Environmental Assessment, and will accept written comments from the public regarding the proposal until Nov. 20. Comments may be addressed to Bob Bayer, project coordinator, Green Mountain National Forest, Manchester Ranger District, 2538 Depot Street, Manchester Center, Vt. 05255.

Get out the shovels

AUBURN--The Old Farmer's Almanac is predicting a colder and snowier winter than normal in New England this season. A mild February is predicted, to be followed by a snowy March. The almanac also calls for heavy snow in mid-November and early January in interior New England.

Centenarian gets a Y2K preview

ECHALLENS, Switzerland--A 105-year-old retired Swiss teacher was ordered to attend elementary school, thanks to a computer that cut a century off his age. The mix-up happened because a computer list of local residents had only the last two digits of his birth date, according to a town official. So the man -- along with 65 5-year-olds in town -- received a letter ordering him to start school. As a result, the computer program has been changed. Millions of computers around the world must be reprogrammed to recognize the year 2000 to avoid widespread problems in the future. Most currently read only a year's last two digits, which could make them assume 2000 is 1900.

From the Bethel Police log:

Wardens get in the game

At 8:10 p.m. on Nov. 9 a vehicle was clocked at 85 miles per hour eastbound on Route 2, in a 45 m.p.h. zone. A warden service officer requested assistance with the stop. On arrival the subject, Edward J. Ianni, 27, of Morrisville, Vt., was arrested for criminal speeding and taken to the Oxford County Jail.

Saturday, Nov. 7

At 11:11 p.m. police observed a vehicle on Railroad Street operating with a defective tail light. The vehicle was stopped, and a license check showed the driver's right to operate was under suspension. Gregory Graffam, 27, of East Waterboro was searched and a marijuana pipe containing a usable amount of marijuana was found on him. Also in the vehicle were two 19-year-old males who admitted to drinking that evening, and that Graffam had purchased alcohol for them. Graffam was arrested for OAS and taken to the Oxford County Jail. He was also charged with possession of drug paraphernalia, possession of a usable amount of marijuana and furnishing liquor to a minor.

Monday, Nov. 9

At 10 p.m. police were requested to assist a warden with a report of a vehicle illuminating deer on Vernon Street. No vehicle was located.

At 10:38 p.m. a warden service officer advised he was behind a driver he believed was operating under the influence. He stopped the vehicle. When police arrived, it was found the operator was not intoxicated. She was warned about her driving habits.

Tuesday, Nov. 10

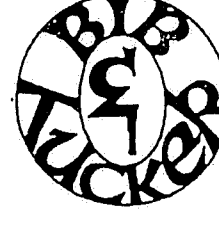

At 11:15 a.m. police stopped a vehicle eastbound on Route 2 traveling at 80 miles per hour. A license check showed it was under suspension in Maine. The subject, Phillips H. Roland, 46, of Somers, Conn., was arrested for exceeding the speed limit and OAS, and was taken to the Oxford County Jail.

This report highlights points of interest from the Bethel Police Department log, but does not include all reports of police activity. To reach the Bethel Police Department, call 911 in emergency situations, 824-3437 in non-emergencies. An answering machine takes calls when an officer is not in the office.

coupled with a low divorce rate for that generation, has resulted in a bumper crop of 50th wedding anniversaries today. Locally, the celebrations of at least a half-dozen couples have been noted in the Citizen in the past six weeks.

Among them were Tommy and Katie Kennagh of Bethel. Both are originally from the Norway-Paris area, where she attended Norway High School during the war. Tommy, on the other hand, "went to work for Uncle Sam and got my education overseas." They did yet not know each other.

He joined the Army at 18 in 1944, and drove a truck in Italy for the next two years. Katie remembers food rationing during that time -- "We had a lot more (rationed food) than most because I came from a big family -- 10 brothers and sisters," she said.

In 1947, after he returned from the war, the couple met in South Paris, introduced by their relatives. After about a year and a half, they decided to get married.

The wedding took place at the Congregational parsonage in South Paris, with just the couple's attendants present. "We got married in street clothes," said Katie. "We didn't want to have a big to-do."

There were no wedding photos -- they were too expensive and, said Katie, "Pictures were not a big thing then."

For a honeymoon, said Tommy, "We went to find a couple of towns in the mountains where they'd leave us alone. It was short and sweet -- and back to work."

Work for Tommy was driving a truck for the L.E. Davis Lumber Co., at $1.50 an hour. Of job prospects after the war, he said, "If you wanted to work, you didn't have to worry much about having a job. There was always plenty to do." But, he added, "The more you earned, the more you spent. You didn't get to accumulate much in those days."

Their first home was a one-room camp on the Intervale Road in Bethel, next to their current home. Amenities included running water, "outdoor plumbing," an outdoor ice box, a stove, a table, a sink and a bed.

Milk was delivered by the milkman in quart bottles "when the coons didn't drink it," said Tommy. He began working two jobs, and earned enough money to build a house on the site of the camp in 1949.

While Tommy worked, Katie took care of the homemaking. "It was kind of lonesome with him working all the time, but I had the garden and the household chores. There was always something to do," she said. "I was happy. I don't think we expected as much then as kids do now when they marry. The demands weren't as big."

For entertainment, they went to area dance halls, an occasional movie, or visited relatives.

Three children arrived in the 1950s. "I clothed them at Brown's Variety (on Main Street in Bethel) and Sears Roebuck," said Katie.

Tommy later worked as a logging contractor, with Katie keeping the books. He also worked for P.H. Chadbourne Co. before his retirement in 1991.

Although they had relatively large parties to celebrate their 25th and 40th anniversaries, they decided to go smaller for the 50th on Oct. 16. Just the immediate family took part in a day's observance at their home.

The Kennaghs now have five grandchildren, and their three children continue to live in the area. "We're very happy to have them well and nearby," Katie said.

Graduation-day vows

Rodney and Kathy Hanscom of Bethel got married June 6, 1948 -- four years after D-Day and the day of Kathy's graduation from Gould Academy. She remembers several other couples were also engaged at the time, with the men recently returned from the service.

Said Rodney of that era, "It was quite a marrying time."

He had served in Army ordnance for almost four years. "I went in (to the service) a couple of weeks after Pearl Harbor," he said, "the day after Christmas."

He spent most of the war in England, finishing his service as an acting supply sergeant.

When he returned home in September 1945, he worked at Kellogg's Store in Bethel.

"I didn't date much," he said. He had, however, known Kathy and her family for a long time. "We started dating in 1947," he said. After about a year, they, like the Kennaghs, had a small wedding. It took place at Kathy's house -- and there were no photos for them, either.

Several friends made a total of three wedding cakes, Kathy remembers, and the couple had a small reception. For a honeymoon, Rodney took off a week from work and they traveled up the coast, then returned and worked on the part of Kathy's family house where they would live.

Rodney then went to work for P.H. Chadbourne, where he stayed for 30 years. Like Tommy Kennagh, he was never out of work. "I did all right," he said.

Kathy stayed home and raised their four children. "Rodney worked a lot of hours. I did a lot of garden work and canning," she said. Her most important responsibility: "Being there when the kids got home, and being a homemaker," she said.

Marriage first, service later

Ken and Barbara Wakefield of Locke Mills were married Oct. 9, 1948.

Unlike the others, Ken was not returning from World War II. He was only 18 at the time of their marriage. He enlisted in the Navy during the Korean conflict.

He is originally from Lovell, while Barbara came from a long-time Locke Mills family. They met at a dance at the Albany Town House.

When they married after a year, it was another small service, at a minister's house in Harrison. "My folks gave us $3," said Barbara. "We spent it on food."

They lived in Lovell, Harrison and Naples over the next few years, with Ken working intermittently in the woods for 75 cents an hour. They lived with various relatives, and Ken helped his step-grandfather build a house in Harrison. During that time, they had a son.

For entertainment, said Ken, "If we went anywhere, we came up here on Saturday or Sunday. We seldom had a car."

He joined the Navy in 1951, serving on a tanker in the Mediterranean. Barbara, meanwhile, came back to Locke Mills to live with her family.

When Ken returned, he and Barbara stayed on in Locke Mills and he went to work running a dowel plane at the Hanover Dowel Mill, where he remained for 20 years. That was followed by 17 years at what is now Gilbert Manufacturing. Barbara also worked at Gilbert's, for 41 years.

In the 1960s, Ken and Barbara discovered a new form of entertainment -- motorcycles. Both got their licenses about the same time. They took two trips to Michigan and back. They still ride today during the warmer seasons.

Since retiring in the early 1990s, the Wakefields have worked on various home crafts, and they travel to craft fairs. "We do a little bit of everything for crafts," said Barbara.

Of modern-day marrying couples, Ken said, "They figure they've got to have a big house. They have to have everything now to be happy. We took anything we got."

Library

drop in circulation between 1982 and 1986 -- from 4,200 books to 1,700. In addition to the video impact, some of the decline was also attributed to older readers passing away or not being able to get to the library.

Annual figures for all the years since then are not readily available, but current librarian Betty Lord said that in 1996, book circulation was 1,456, while in 1997 it was 1,475. That represents a further decline from the 1980s, but not nearly as severe.

Lord said it appears school-age children are taking out fewer books in the past couple of years, but young children continue to borrow at a steady rate.

(The library will soon have more room for its books and readers, thanks to an addition currently under construction.)

At the Andover Library, assistant librarian Grace Simmons said in the four years she has worked there it appears circulation has declined among youth from age 10 into the teenage years. "I think they're relying more on the computer and the Internet," she said, for research and perhaps entertainment as well.

In past years there had been a large group of youngsters from that age group coming in for pleasure reading books, she said.

Very young children continue to check books out, said Simmons, and adult circulation seems to be holding steady.

Specific circulation numbers for recent years were not available at press time.

School libraries

Raymond is now the librarian at the Crescent Park Elementary School. "Kids are avid readers at school," she said. "I sense a real enthusiasm." Many of them, she said, "want to check out more books than they can."

Grades K-5 each have a strong core of readers, Raymond said. She likes having the opportunity to encourage children to read who might not get the encouragement otherwise.

The CPS students make regular trips to the library from their classrooms.

While Raymond worked at the Bethel Library, there were children she never saw because their parents did not bring them or they lived too far away, she said.

Linda Blackman has been the librarian at the Telstar High/Middle School library for five years. There, she said, book circulation has increased each year, despite the greater availability of computers in the school, library and individual homes.

Teachers are now requiring more independent research by students, she said, and "computers alone do not cut it."

The overall library program has also improved in recent years -- there was no certified librarian for several years prior to Blackman's arrival, and the school district has provided better budgetary support in recent years, she said.

groups that came to use the laser-tag arena.

The arena will consist of ramps and balconies spread primarily across the upper two floors of the barn. The function rooms will be located on the first floor, and the climbing wall will start there.

The barn is located within floodplain, but Lisa Scott, Bethel's code enforcement officer, told the board the changes proposed by Dunton fall into the category of "minor development" -- so it will not be necessary for the floor of the barn to be raised.

Dunton said the developers were trying to use the first floor for things -- like the pea-stone floor of the climbing gym -- that will not be seriously affected by an occasional immersion.

"We know we'll see water in there sometimes," he said.

In addition to the laser-tag arena and climbing gym, plans also call for an 18-hole miniature golf course to be built next year said Chris Hayward, site manager for the adventure center.

An application was submitted for the miniature golf course at the same time as the laser-tag arena, but that application is on hold until the spring, according to Mary Rosberg, town planning assistant.

The board wants to see a more detailed plan for the facility, Rosberg said, and to address concerns regarding layout and lighting.

Hayward said the total cost of the Big Adventure Center, is expected to be half a million dollars. "Big," he said, is an acronym for Bethel Investment Group.

Dunton said he hopes to have the laser-tag arena open by Christmas Vacation and the rock-climbing gym by late January or early February.

Other recommendations to be addressed in a later report that will be submitted by the school in 2000 include (not a complete list): provide a means to reinstate programming lost through reduction in guidance office staff; develop a plan to address the dropout rate; develop an ongoing, multi-year capital improvement plan; and ensure that budget preparation employs data regarding school and student performance.

CORRECTION: Newry's vote tallies for four candidates in last week's election should have been as follows: Angus King, 87; Patricia LeMarche, 7; James Longley, 19; John Baldacci, 87.

CLIMBING PRESENTATION

Renowned climber Mark Synnott will be at Gould Academy on Thursday, Nov. 12, to present a slide show and lecture based on his climbing experiences in Patagonia. Last February, Synnott and climbing partner Kevin Thaw made alpine-style ascents of two of Patagonia's most forbidding peaks, Cerro Torre and Fitzroy. They returned with breathtaking images and wild stories, which Synnott will share with serious and aspiring climbers and armchair travelers alike.

The lecture and slide show will begin at 7 p.m. in the living room of Ordway Hall, Gould's new dining hall building on Church Street. There is no charge, and the public is invited to attend.

and I went to the potluck supper and auction at the Locke Mills Union Church on Sunday night. We spent a very pleasant evening. I always enjoy going there. Folks are so friendly like at Bethel Alliance. When I lived with my sister and brother-in-law and went to school at Woodstock High and also when I worked in the mill at Locke Mills that was my church. Arthur and I were married there by the Rev. Abbie Norton on March 14, 1942. The church has many happy memories for me.

Ellsworth Hathaway was the auctioneer that night and he did a great job. Dick Melville helped by taking the things to the highest bidder.

There was a very good attendance at Bethel Alliance Sunday, the 1st of November. Pastor Rick's message, "Yes You Can," was great. My favorite hymn that day was "Amazing Grace." We had communion on that day also.

Pastor Rick visited me on Friday and I enjoyed his visit very much. Irene Russell spent the weekend with her daughter, Judy Gagnon, and family in Cumberland Center.

Paul Bartlett was a recent visitor of his mother, Helena Bartlett.

I did not give to trick-or-treaters this year. So many have been coming I just could not. I treated 40 last year and ran out of treats, but many more came after that. One resident reported that she had 60 last year and another 70. I was not the only one that felt they could not give this year either.

Maintenance men at the Bethel House are Gary and Jason Pendexter. One or the other plan to be at the Bethel House every Monday. Gary was here on Nov. 2. If they are needed in between or if we want to say what we would like them to do when they are up, we have a number to call.

Many were thrilled to see John Glenn off into space. I think the money could have been used much more wisely for a number of other things -- to give the lower-income Social Security ones a higher raise, to help needy families obtain health insurance, and to help those that need it get help with their medications, to mention a few.

Vada Glover was up Tuesday and we played cribbage and now at 954 games we are tied. We went to the Frozen Logger for dinner. That is a very nice place to eat.

Nancy Cummings took me for my appointment with Dr. Ross in Rumford on Thursday last week.

Fred's idea of healthy living is working out-of-doors on Sparrowhawk Mountain Farm.

He recently called to say that he would be yoking the steers together and for me to come over and see how the little guys have grown. Before I could set foot on the mountain, I thought I should bone up on avian science, as Fred is famous for his Poultry Pop Quizzes. I looked under "C" and sure enough, the World Book had six whole pages of chicken facts. Being prepared with information, such as the seven kinds of combs, location of ear lobes, and breeding habits of Asiatic Brahmas, helps ease the pain of erring on one of those dreaded quizzes.

When I arrived at the farm, Fred and Maggie greeted me at the door and whisked me down the drive to where Ben and Gerry were grazing. I couldn't help but notice the matching winter coats the cattle were sporting -- pretty fancy for Maine. Their horns were just peeking out above the tossed red and white caps. They seemed a little apprehensive about seeing me. My mistake must be that I talked to them as if they were still babies and in reality they are nearing their first birthday. Weighing in at a few hundred pounds each, they are a far cry from my first vision of them last January. Remember, they made their appearance during the Ice Storm of '98. They were so little that Fred and I lugged them into his house where they stayed all winter.

Fred got them out of the back shed this past spring and built a pasture where they happily browse alongside their two goat friends. Along came a bungalow befitting Sparrowhawk steers and goats, where they all could get out of the wind and weather. Fred has always had animals, even when he lived in the suburbs of Wells, and he always taught them to appear when he whistles. Like Pavlov, Fred had conditioned his animals and for good reason.

"If it ain't broke, don't fix it," and "No-mind Bovine" are two of Fred's favorite sayings. Sometimes men can be naive or maybe it's just plain foolish. Lately, Fred has been busy and rather than use the gated area to get into the cattle yard, he has been stepping up onto a stump and going over the fence to feed and water the four-legged family members. Not long after this practice, the steers were miraculously appearing on the outside of the fence. They didn't go far -- just got out -- like Fred did and browsed around the farmyard. Fred had new respect of his bovine friends and had to fix the fence and use the gate again like a "regular farmer."

We did get out to work the steers that afternoon and walked them up the gravel road to the summit of the hill, then across the ridge and back. They are coming along pretty well except for backing up. The goats think they're cattle and are inseparable. What a picture we made; Fred said he felt a bit like Noah with his wife in hand, leading the animals two by two. Walking ahead, Fred and I looked back to see the pair of steers, pair of goats and Maggie wriggling along between each pair of feet bugging everything that moved.

Louise and Roy Leach and other family members spent the weekend recently with Beatrice Sneider and Betty Moore. All traveled to Pittsfield, N.H., for their Aunt Pauline's 90th birthday. Louise and Roy and granddaughter then spent a few days in the area visiting relatives.

Michael and David Snow joined Andover School last week. Michael is in the fifth grade and David is in the multi-age one-two room. They have moved here from Naples. Welcome to Andover.

Honor roll at Andover School for first quarter: High honors: Kayla Mills, grade five. Honors: Kayla Damon and Jennifer Learned, grade four; Blake Conrad, Sherry Downs, Cindy Farrington, Stephen Scotti, grade five.

The Calvary Congregational Church enjoyed a message from Village Missions pastor, Cliff McMullen, of the Pleasant Valley Bible Church in Bethel. Sunday, Nov. 8, was Village Missions Day. Pastor Waite traveled to the VM church at Paris Hill and the VM pastor at Paris Hill, Steve McNally, traveled to Bethel. This Village Missions swap Sunday is an annual event. In the evening, the three churches held their monthly fellowship here in Andover. The Calvary Congregational Church will be conducting a "religious" survey of the town in the near future. Members of the church will be circulating the surveys door-to-door.

Upton

by Eleanor LeComte

The gray days of November are on us. Each morning the thermometer hovers around 32 degrees. The weather has definitely changed into a winter pattern with daily snow flurries and other warnings of the season ahead. Mt. Speck has a perpetual cloud leaning toward Upton, but as you pass through going toward Newry, the sun is shining giving you a false sense of security.

Last week, the final soccer game was held at Crescent Park School. After the game, the Aron girls and other team members attended a pizza party. Marie Aron wishes to remind us that there will be a book fair starting Nov. 5 and ending Nov. 13 at the Crescent Park School.

Last week's voter turnout was fairly good in spite of the blustery weather. Most of the people felt that there were no surprises in the results that would affect the town.

Liz Stanczyk is to be commended for the beautiful window box arrangements at the Town Office Building. The "Christmassy" balsam and red berries were offset by the pumpkins reminding us that fall was still here.

Evelyn Kenney bagged the first deer in Upton this year. There are several hunting parties in town but not much gunfire. The Wixom group arrived on Saturday. We enjoy watching them go up the road in the morning with a lively step and hope in their hearts. At dusk the return is not so peppy and less thrilled with the hunting season.

The latest donors to the Bell Tower Fund were received from Ernest and Alberta Angevine of Bethel, in memory of John and Gladys Angevine. Another donation was received from Evelyn and Jim Kenney of Upton.

Joy and Jim Yarnell reported seeing two peregrine falcons in their area. Ginny Williamson heard a thump at the side of her house and on investigating found a dead kamikaze partridge. She reports he tasted just as good as any other partridge. The birds of the week are a male and female cardinal spotted crossing Route 26 to Elsie Fuller's bird feeder. I hope they intend to stay the winter because she really enjoys watching them. The hawks must be on the move because they are seen several times daily.

There was a very informative article in the Sunday paper on Nov. 1 on the loons of Lake Umbagog and how they were affected by an oil spill off Rhode Island in 1996. Since our loons winter on the coast, they suspect we must have lost some in the oil slick. Workers treated 405 oiled birds with only 13 surviving. Although several species were involved, the loons were hit the hardest. The article caught our eye because Jennifer Casey, the biologist, was in the featured photograph. Jennifer and Paul Casey purchased the Winter Lake House last winter.

If you are passing through Errol to Colebrook, watch for the baby buffalo. He is very beautiful with a curly, honey colored coat. He is not as tall as a golden retriever.

Meetings held last week were the School Committee, the Planning Board, and the Selectmen's meeting. At the Selectmen's meeting, bids were opened for the Tax Acquired Property. The bid was awarded to Charles Lavalley.

In closing, we wish to salute and thank the veterans who served us all so well, that we might live in freedom in our wonderful country.

South Woodstock

by Andrea Wing

A special Happy Birthday to my sister-in-law, Joan Poland, who celebrates her birthday this month. Happy Anniversary to Vince and Beverly Stevens and also Don and Virginia Mason.

Edith Deegan, formerly of South Woodstock, was honored at a surprise 70th birthday party at the home of her son, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Deegan of Hebron. Edith's party was a complete surprise. After a nice luncheon with many eatables, Juanita Haines and Linda Westleigh served the birthday cake. Son Edward served the ice cream. Michelle Deegan, Edith's only grandchild, attended the guest book. Erland Twitchell taped a video of the event for future good times. Son Ronald gave a brief run of how much his mother had done for him and his brother during their younger years. Other past happenings were brought up by folks attending the party, which brought a few laughs. Edith received gifts and cards and expressed her sincere thanks to all. Several friends and relatives were present from several towns throughout the area.

Congratulations to Laurie and Scott Huff on the birth of twin girls, born Oct. 28 at Stephens Memorial Hospital in Norway. The girls are named Emily Nicole and Anna Elizabeth. Maternal grandparents are Leslie and Suzanne Hall of Oxford and paternal grandparents are Charles and Shirley Huff of Norway.

Rosalie Poland is recuperating slowly from her knee replacement surgery.

Quote of the Week: "I've learned that by the time a person gets to greener pastures, he can't climb the fence."

NOTICE: The annual meeting of Project Opportunity, Inc., will be held in conjunction with its regular Board of Directors meeting on Tuesday, November 24, 1998 at 4 pm at Telstar High School in the Principal's conference room.

Greenwood City

by Colista Morgan

The call of the Canada goose is one of the great sounds of nature, a wondrous loud ka-ronk. If you have heard it, you will never forget it. If you haven't, listen this fall, for one of the four great flyways crosses the Atlantic section. We hear them in October and November. Early morning last week I watched a flock heading southwest. No one may hear the trumpets of these geese flying in precise formation without a quick beat of the heart. Those voices so brazen and wonderful immediately the eyes lift; the moment is tense, which is a tribute to these birds.

To Americans the Canada geese are symbolic of longing and wanderlust, and of freedom for which all aspire but never really attain.

A continent is beneath them, as they drive onward. There is something of sadness and regret as they drift beyond the gray horizon. As we searched the grayness they advanced with the speed of the wind until they were above the river, with no gap in the "V" as they dwindled away, trumpeters, dismally honking. So sure of themselves, they appear to know with certainty the message that is borne on that wind out of the north and they feel the wild joy of flight. Hundreds of miles of flying lie before them under the autumn sun or stars and the silver sickle of the moon. Through the night the matchless flight will continue. The smaller stars will grow clearer and the night more silent and empty. But they aren't lonely on their passage, for far through the darkness their great pinions bearing them faultlessly on; there are others winding down "this incredible staircase of the wind."

Behind them they leave the deeply wooded section of New England. And at dawn, beneath them, they will find the fragrance, the warmth, the luring sweetness of a warmer land as it is touched by the golden light of the rising sun. Here, no doubt, they will rest for a time before continuing on southward, ever southward in a determined and resolute direction. As wild as they are free, no bird other than the crane can surpass them in discipline, wisdom and courage.

With necks like arrows on a bow/Across the sky the wild geese go/Beauty is coming molded by high winds of the upper sky/Into shape that burn to be/In a patterned symmetry. --Robert P.T. Coffin.

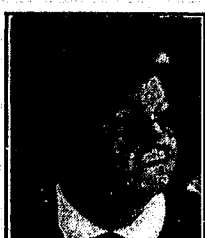

Another Halloween has gone. It was nice to see the children and there were all styles of costumes.

There was a housewarming the same evening. The Hakala place on Patch Mountain Road had new people move in. Several of us went to both. It was nice to meet our new neighbors.

Milton Inman is on vacation this week with other hunters.

Ann took her mother and me for another interesting ride last Sunday. It was interesting and fun.

The hunters' and family breakfast held last Saturday at the historical building was a great success. Many workers made it all run smoothly. We made a profit of $235.

On Tuesday, there was a good turnout of senior citizens at Ledgeview meeting room for the delicious Thanksgiving dinner prepared by Minna Morgan and her able helpers.

The Craft Group met on Thursday with Beverly Stevens, to make chocolates to be on sale at the Fall Sale to be held on Saturday, Nov. 14, at Goodwill Hall of the Universalist Church, from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. There will be a food table, crafts, cards and white elephants. All donations of food will be happily accepted.

The next meeting of the West Paris Historical Society will be on Monday, Nov. 16, preceded by a 6 p.m. ham supper. The supper committee is Betty Jones, Harlan Abbott and Vern and Miriam Inman. The program after the meeting will be by Charlene Ring on quilting.

Would like to have news!

Good News Club for all school-age children will be held at the Baptist Church Annex every Tuesday from 6 to 7:15 p.m. There will be Bible stories, games, treats and missionary stories. All school-age children are invited to attend. Marilyn Noyes from CEF Western Maine will be the teacher.

Franklin Grange 124 met on Monday, Nov. 2, for a regular meeting and Veterans Day program. Twenty members were present. The chimney has been fixed. The program was as follows: opening thought, "Thank God for our Servicemen"; opening song by all, "Battle Hymn of the Republic"; reading, "America Needed a Hero" by Bertha Benoit; song, "This is my Country"; reading by Laura Hutchins, "World War One a Memory"; song, "America"; State Grange report by Peggy Blake and Joe Yates, a very good report; Dot Canwell whistled and Richard Felt played the harmonica; song, "God Bless America" and closing thought by Bertha Benoit. The next meeting is Nov. 16. Remember that meetings start at 7 p.m.

Forty-six senior citizens attended the meeting and dinner at the Grange Hall on Thursday, Nov. 5. A delicious turkey dinner was served by the WHS Alumni Association. Herschel Abbott spoke after the dinner. He had some real old postcards for people to look at, very nice.

The Woodstock Extension will meet on Wednesday, Nov. 18, at the Town Annex. The program will be on Christmas crafts with Louise Noyes as the leader. This meeting starts at 1 p.m. There will be a tasting party.

Callers on Beatrice Farnum this week have been Bessie House, Edith Hathaway and Harriett Estes.

The Woodstock Historical Society wishes everyone a Happy Thanksgiving. What are you especially thankful for this year? The society thanks its members for recent fundraising with the Thanksgiving basket, especially Robert Billings. Over the years he has taken on so many projects, large and small, for the society.

The society begins its 20th year this November. Anyone can help make it the most successful year ever with encouragement and support. Anyone can help by joining the society.

The society has received a small figurine of a buck deer, a tin cutout of an angel, an art deco sculpture, a ship in a bottle and a large portrait. Also, there was a painting of a covered bridge.

Looking for a home

"PLOTIE" IS A FOUR- OR FIVE-YEAR-OLD PLOT HOUND that is desperately looking for a very special home. He has special needs that hopefully someone can meet. Plottie was rescued from a local animal shelter as his time was coming to an end. For the last month or so he has been fostered by Sue Parsons in Otisfield. He is no longer a hunting dog, as there is some question about his knees. He now makes a wonderful couch potato. He loves people and wants to be right with you when you are home. At his foster home, there are other dogs that Plottie sometimes gets along great with and at other times gets squabbles with. He is very interested in cats. However, his foster mom thinks the ideal home would be where Plottie would be the only "top dog." When humans are not at home, Plottie has adjusted to be crate trained with no problem whatsoever. He has been neutered and is up to date on shots. This dog is truly a wonderful, gentle one who minds very well considering he was a stray and ended up in a shelter for several months. He loves to ride and would make a wonderful companion dog for someone. If you are interested in giving Plottie an indoor home, please call 836-2725 after 6 p.m.

pastor. The thought for the day by Jay and a special by Jay, also, "God has a Voice." The message of the day was "Attribute to the Saints." Communion was taken, hymns sung and postlude.

The Newry Mothers Club wishes to thank everyone who helped set up and take down the decorations for the Halloween Party. Congratulations go to the following kids who won in the guessing of candy and for best costumes: Jamie Stevens, Jonathan Parsons and Zack Gray Thompson, Vicki Lowell, Lucas Schandelmeyer, scariest, Mahaila Statham; cutest, Elise Berry; most original, Noah Gray Cabey, Marcie Baker won in the pumpkin guess.

A special thank-you goes to Jason Billings as "Count," Heather Lowell as the Face Painter; Chelsey Bartlett in decorating, and all the boys who put their head in the box as the headless man. Thank you all for making this year's Halloween Party a great success.

The Newry Mothers Club will meet next month on Monday, Dec. 14, at 6:30 p.m. for the annual Christmas Party.

Betsy Clark, Gil Seeley, Eleanor Davis, Doris Parent and Bea Lowell were at the Oxford Lanes in Rumford doing some bowling for fun one day last week. On the overall scores, Betsy was high on the triples, beating Gil by six pins; but Gil was high on the singles, beating Betsy by one pin. Of the "righties," Doris was high on both the triples and singles. All went to lunch at Teena's and did some shopping.

Sylvia Gray, Karlene Bachelder and Loretta Berry gave me a surprise party, celebrating my birthday one day last week, with cards, gifts and cake and ice cream -- mmm, good. Thank you, friends, for an hour of fun.

The highlight of the weekend last weekend was David Hanscom's wedding to Susan Richardson on Saturday afternoon at the Church of the Nazarene in Norway. Theirs was a simple, but very touching ceremony, because Susan and David had lost their first spouse to cancer, and both their families were active and supportive participants. The exchanging of vows was followed by a reception and dance at the Locke Mills American Legion Hall.

If you're a regular reader of this column, you will recall my story two weeks ago about the "uni-man." Well, I found out that the "rag man," just plain Bill, or, as we refer to him, "Just Plain," felt slighted because I made no mention of the rag man being one of our highlights of the week in that story. I want to make it clear right now that we have several weekly "highlights," and the arrival of the rag man on Wednesday morning is one. We look forward to that fully as eagerly, possibly more so, as we do the "uni-man." Our other biggie is the Thursday morning arrival of the rubbish men, which kind of starts that day off right; the only problem with that is that the rubbish men are pretty much overshadowed by pizza time, because Thursday is also pizza day.

I usually try to avoid political commentary, but I'd like to make a couple observations about last week's elections. One, the election of Jesse "The Body" Ventura as governor of Minnesota against such political "institutions" as Hubert Humphrey's son, seems to me to be an indication that people are becoming tired of "politics as usual." The other, the failure of the House of Representatives Republicans to make large gains in the election appears to be a repudiation of the "right wing" agenda, in the same way that the defeat of the Democrats in Congress a few years ago was a rejection of the liberal wing of that party. I find it encouraging that the American people appear to be seeking the middle of the road, not giving away the purse to every whining splinter group pleading poverty, but not letting the so-called "moral majority" dictate a divisive agenda on religious or "super-patriotic" grounds either. I think many of us like the idea of a President of one party balanced by a Congress of the other.

The Christmas craft fair, put on by the Greenwood Fire Department Auxiliary will be held Saturday, Nov. 14, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. at the fire station. The station will be open at 9 a.m. for those having tables, in order to set up. The auxiliary will have a table featuring food, but any donation will be gratefully accepted.

Lorraine Larson, (that's me), attended the revival services at the Bethel Nazarene Church on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings and together with Andy on Sunday. The speaker was the Rev. Clayton Haley. On Sunday evening she attended a missionary meeting at the Windham Church of the Nazarene, along with Rhonda Mitchell, Gerry Shimamura and Debbie Grant. The Rev. and Mrs. Don Cox, missionaries to Honduras, El Salvador and Guatemala, kept everyone on the edge of their seats as they alternated telling of the two weeks in December three years ago when they were stationed in Ecuador and Rev. Cox was kidnapped by a group of people who thought they could extort money from them. One could see just what each was going through day by day. The Cox's also have four boys, three of whom were home during this trial. One was in the States going to college. As it turned out, Rev. Cox was rescued from his kidnappers by an Ecuadorian SWAT team just in time for Christmas.

Gary (Butch) Fuller has received word that his brother, Tom Hazelton, has recently been promoted to the rank of captain in the Los Angeles County Fire Department. Tom is the son of Maynard and Mary Hazelton, formerly of Locke Mills. He now lives in San Clemente, Calif., with his wife, Lisa, son, Chance, and daughter, Casey. He is stationed at the Alta Dena facility.

Lorraine Larson accompanied Debbie Brown to Lewiston where they attended a Luis Palau rally at the Assembly of God Church. An interdenominational, well-known South American evangelist, Luis Palau, is planning several crusades during April, starting with Presque Isle and ending in Portland and then on to the remainder of the New England states and eastern seaboard.

Congratulations to Barbara and Ken Wakefield on their 50th wedding anniversary on Oct. 9. Way to go, folks.

East Stoneham

by Eleanor Nelson

Hi readers. There will be a benefit supper for Margaret (Rolf) Pike Saturday, Nov.

14, from 4:30 to 6:30 p.m. at the North Waterford Congregational Church. The cost is $5 for adults, $2.50 for children under 12.

Again this year, Phyllis Adams and I were ballot clerks at the Election Day voting here in Stoneham on Tuesday. Last year we had 195 voters registered and 95 people voted. This year 203 were registered and 111 people voted. It was good to see so many people make the effort to come out and vote.

We missed Ralph and Harriett Brown and their pizza, but we had nice muffins, ice cream bars and hot apple crisp. Thanks, Phyllis, Albert and Mary. It all made the long day go a little faster, and we met a lot of nice new people in town.

Catherine Farley from Bernard spent a few days last week with Dick and Marilyn Jones.

Shirley Grant from Mechanic Falls spent a few days last week

About the Business Person who Doesn't Advertise...

This person wakes up in the morning to the sound of an advertised alarm clock, climbs out of his advertised bed, and takes off his advertised pajamas. Then he takes a bath in an advertised tub, with advertised soap, shaves with an advertised razor, eats an advertised breakfast food, puts on his advertised clothes and drives to work in his advertised car. He then sits at an advertised desk and writes with an advertised pen. Yet this man doesn't advertise - saying that advertising does not pay.

Eventually, when his unadvertised business goes under, he will advertise it for sale!

This week at the

Moses Mason House

Herbert Adams of the Friends of C.A. Stephens was the featured speaker at the Nov. 5 monthly meeting of the Bethel Historical Society. His topic was "Greenwood in the Forties: Addison E. Verrill and his World," but Adams explored the life and times of this famous Yale zoologist who came out of the hills of Greenwood, Maine. Using humor and a myriad of details about Verrill, Adams provided numerous insights into the life of this cousin of C.A. Stephens, the famed storyteller from Norway. Adams and Larry Glatz, also of the Friends of C.A. Stephens, are currently editing Verrill's memories of growing up in Greenwood in the 1840s for publication.

During the business portion of the meeting, President Walter Hatch announced that the next meeting would be held on Dec. 3 with the annual "Christmas with the Masons." Gifts of the month included a 1994 Gateway computer, keyboard and monitor from Richard and Frances Bernier, which provides another word processor in the office. Also announced was the gift of a fax machine, courtesy of John and Julia Fox of Andover and West Newton, Mass. The society fax number is (207) 824-0882. The president thanked both couples for their generosity in making these donations possible.

Priscella Walker of the Museum Shop Committee announced that the society is having made a limited number of candle snuffers and showed a prototype at the meeting for those wishing to order one. Anyone wishing to order this special product was urged to call the society at 824-2908.

The president announced that the Board of Trustees had approved a change in title for Randall Bennett, curator of collections. He will now also be assistant director.

Mr. Hatch also reported that the Board of Trustees has officially approved a name change for the present Elms that will take place next year, when it will become the Robinson House in honor of the first owner. In addition, the proposed center will be officially the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center by vote of the Board of Trustees.

The president announced that the Genealogy Committee is seeking new members and anyone interested is urged to attend the committee's next meeting on Nov. 17, 7 p.m. at the Dr. Moses Mason House.

Mr. Hatch officially announced that the society will be sponsoring a family-oriented, chemical-free New Year's Bethel on Dec. 31 with four locations for music and entertainment that will include fireworks at midnight. He urged those present to watch the papers for further details and urged anyone willing to help with this major event to call the society office. Charles Raymond, chairman of the Board of Trustees, used the new video camera, made possible by a grant from Exxon, to record the meeting for use by Channel IV.

Refreshments followed the program with cider and a variety of treats served.

From the

Bethel Area Chamber of Commerce

The chamber would like to welcome our newest member: The Bethel Citizen, Ed Snook, publisher. All friends of the chamber are invited to a Christmas Swag making party on Thursday, Nov. 19, from 2 to 4 p.m. at Pooh Corner Farm & Greenhouses. Refreshments will be supplied as we work to make these beautiful utility pole decorations for downtown Bethel.

Many thanks to Anne and Dave Carter of Carter's Cross Country Ski Center and Aldro French and Joan Magrauth of Rapid River Fly Fishing for hosting a Business After Hours on Tuesday evening at Carter's on the Intervale Road, Bethel. The next get-together is scheduled for Tuesday, Dec. 8, from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at the Black Bear B & B (formerly the Blueberry Mountain Inn) on the Sunday River Road, Newry. New owners, Phil Buell and Faith Spath, are looking forward to meeting all of you.

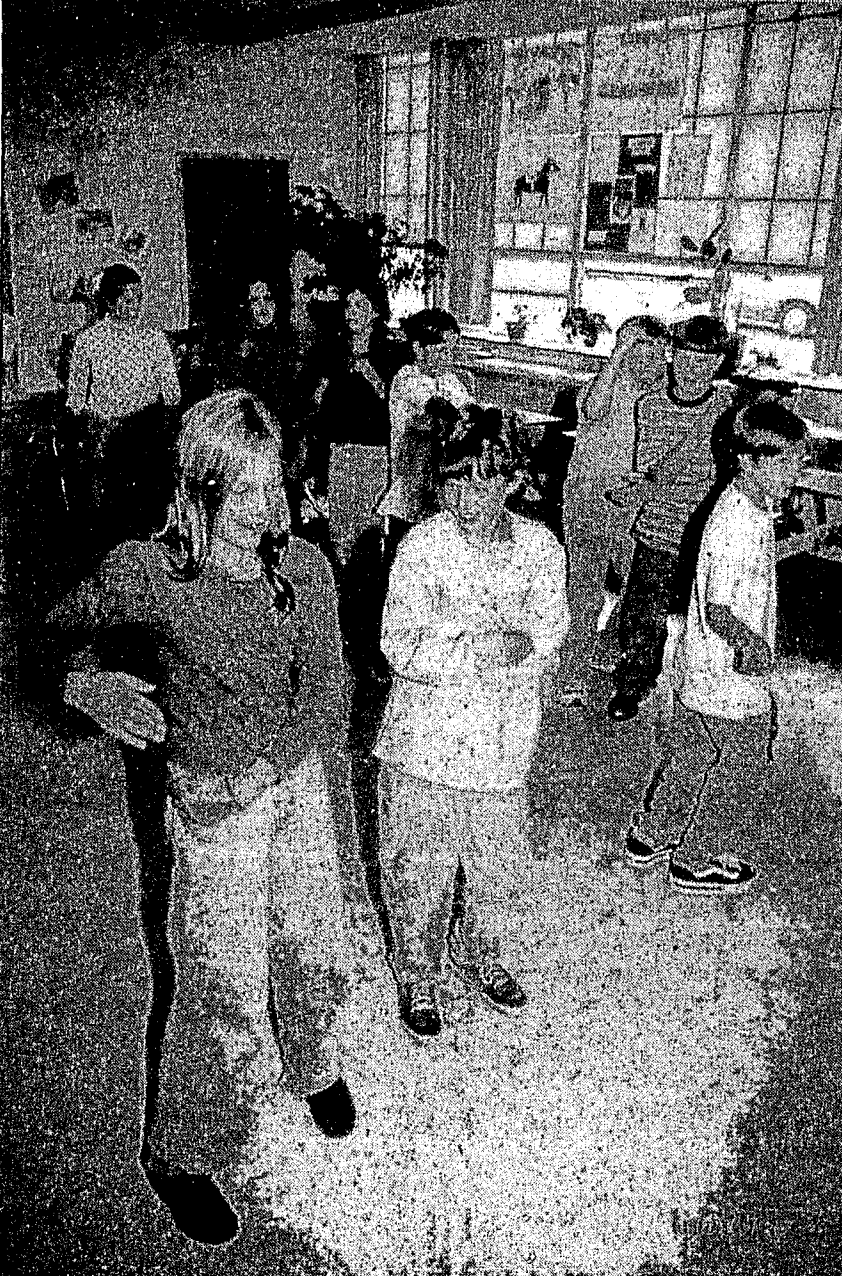

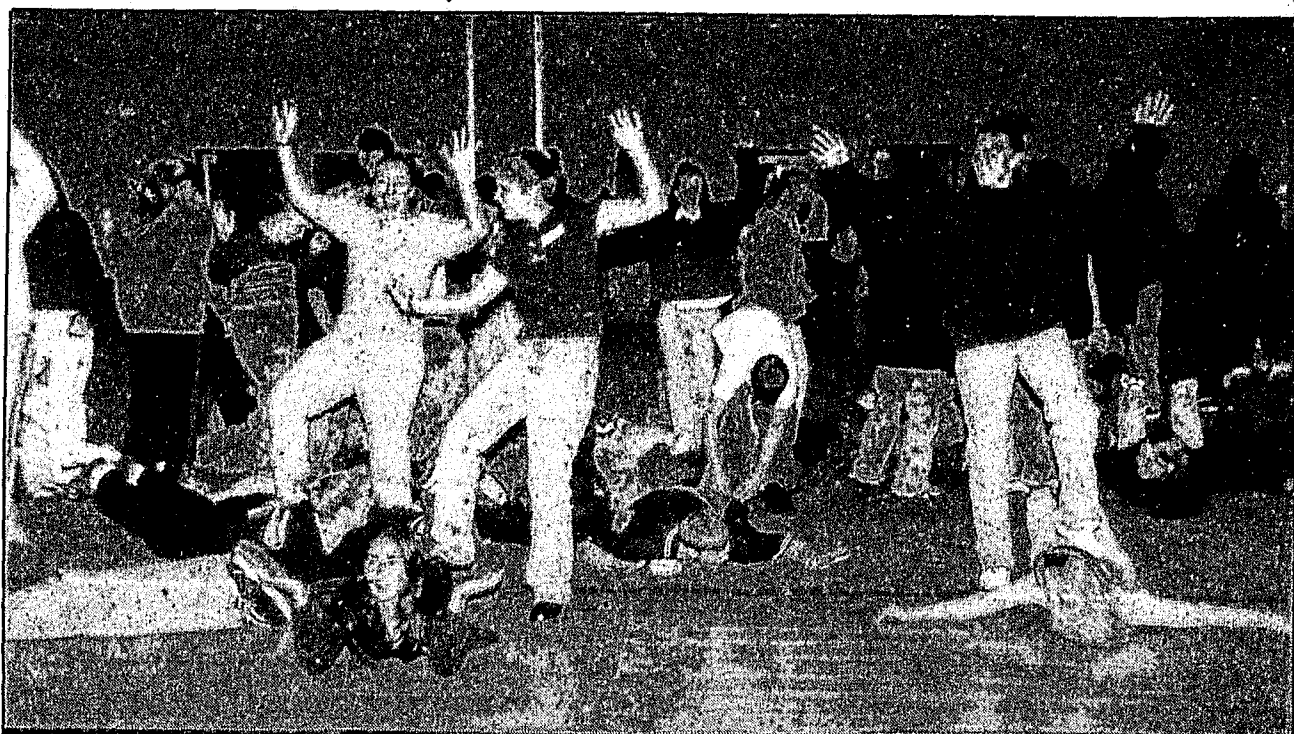

Just a few days later, on Sunday, Dec. 13, the chamber is holding the annual Holiday Party at the Great Grizzly on the Sunday River Road from 5 to 8 p.m. Many thanks to owners Roger and Patrice Beaudoin for offering to do this for our members and, at the same time, showcasing their (formerly) two distinct restaurants molded into one lovely physical setting. Please place the above dates on your calendar and plan to join us. This is a great way to network and make new business contacts while having fun, too.

The Country Christmas in Bethel flyer, which was inserted in last week's Bethel Citizen, has two errors in it, which we would like to correct: The Bethel Alliance Church is going to be caroling on Main Street, Bethel, on Saturday, Dec. 12 rather than the 19th. Also, there is no candlelight service at the West Parish Congregational Church on Sunday, Dec. 20, but there is one on Thursday, Dec. 24. Remember -- the month-long event "kicks off" on Thanksgiving Weekend, and we hope everyone joins in the festivities.

The chamber volunteer crew is getting ready to go the Boston Ski Show this week, from Thursday, Nov. 12, through Sunday, Nov. 15. We have an enthusiastic group who have offered to take turns wearing a "Snowman Costume" to help us promote the Bethel Winter Festival. The volunteers were listed in last week's paper, with the exception of Irene McGrew, who is accompanying Robin Zinchuk on Thursday to get the booth set up. Many thanks to all.

A belated, but sincere, thanks to Jeremy Grimm of the Java House for donating pastries and coffee for our new board member orientation breakfast.

The Bethel Winter Fest planning is coming along nicely. We would like to thank the following businesses for their pledges of sponsorship support to date: Sysco; Shaw's Supermarkets; C.B. Kenworth, Maine; Northeast Bank; Bethel Citizen; and Tex's Tortillas. Special Events Coordinator Paula Wheeler is still seeking sponsors -- if you have interest, call the chamber office at 824-2282 and we'll explain the sponsor packages and promotional opportunities.

TAKING AN ACTIVE ROLE IN EDUCATION

Freshmen at Telstar High School spent two days at the Summit Hotel learning how to deal with issues they will face during their high school careers. Above, upperclassmen (foreground, standing) Casey Brown, Sarah Howe and Jen Stevens lead the ninth-graders in ice-breaking activities designed to put them at ease with each other. At Telstar Middle School, sixth-graders studied South America, then celebrated a South American Fiesta Day with music, dancing, food and a modern-day video set in Machu Picchu, Peru. Students also published a newspaper featuring articles on South American topics including news, home and family, weather, comics, sports, arts and culture, editorials and classifieds. Here, students Nola Wentworth, Yves Baribeau and Ryan Trefethen learn dance steps.

Gould sports

Men's Varsity Soccer

Bridgton 2, Gould 1; Nov. 4--Justin Hall scored Gould's only goal off an assist from Matt Noeker in a loss to Bridgton. According to Coach Mark Small, "The team showed great maturity in being able to come back from a one-goal deficit to tie the score and take the game into overtime. Even though the result was not a win, the team played hard and they have much to be proud of."

Men's J.V. Soccer

MAISAD Tournament Semifinals: Gould 2, Waynflete 0; Nov. 4--Emmett Donovan scored both of Gould's goals, with assists from Ryan Wheeler and Geoff Hayward. The team continued to dominate, extending its season-long string of shut-out victories into the first game of the Maine Independent School League championship tournament.

MAISAD Tournament Finals: Gould 3, Hyde 1; Nov. 6--Emmett Donovan scored two of Gould's three goals, one with an assist from Josh Gray, and assisted Eddie Keiser in scoring Gould's remaining goal as the team defeated Hyde School in the final game of the Maine Independent School League championship tournament. According to Coach Brett Shifrin, "The whole team played exceptionally well and reached their goal of finishing the season undefeated. Senior Chris Brooks, junior sweeper Jon Gould, and outside backs Thomas Parsons and Kevin Hanian deserve praise for their consistently strong play in the back today and throughout the year."

Women's Varsity Soccer

Gould 2, Hebron 0; Nov. 7--Kate Warner and Betsy Capone scored Gould's goals in the final game of the regular season, with notable play by Emily Parsons, Jackie Paaso, and goalie Natalie Rodenberg. Gould was slated to take on Pine Tree Academy in Wednesday's Maine Independent School League semifinal game, with the final game scheduled for Saturday. Last Saturday's win gave the Gould team an 11-1 regular season record.

Varsity Field Hockey

MAISAD Tournament Semifinals: Gould 2, Waynflete 0; Nov. 4--Riley Hanson and Caroline Riss scored Gould's goals as they defeated Waynflete in the semifinal round of the Maine Independent School League championship. Hanson and Jenny Wheeler had assists in the game, and Payson Halsey had an outstanding game, being a key part of the Gould attack.

MAISAD Tournament Finals: Gould 2, Hebron 1; Nov. 6--Goals by Payson Halsey and Riley Hanson in the first half of the game provided all the offense Gould needed to defeat Hebron Academy, which only a week earlier had handed Gould a narrow loss in regular season play. Gould had entered the tournament ranked number one, and now awaits a berth in the New England Prep School League championships, to be played November 18-22.

Sunday River Valley

Rockie Graham

I want everyone to know that I do submit my columns, it's just that there is sometimes more important news to print. I'll try to recap -- or maybe not.

The elections last week were something else. In Maine, there were few surprises. The bond issues won, incumbents retained seats in both the 1st and 2nd districts, and the turnout was better than predicted. Mainers are okay.

Those of you who thought that you spotted a new vehicle in our driveway, were right. No, we did not get a new car, yet, but, as we were both away, Siiri Cressey house/dog sat. Actually, it is still warm enough that the house needed little attention. Tasha is another story. She had never spent a night, let alone a weekend without one of us, at least, not since she came to live in our humble abode. I hear that she was moping, but, both Siiri and neighbor Nancy and friend Kevin took her for walks. She survived.

I had a very eventful trip. Owing to the untimely terminality of the Chevy, I took the Vista to Rhode Island, with all her 180,000+ miles. All went fine on the trip down there, except the directions were wrong. I couldn't find the correct road, and then I spent what felt like two hours (and was probably 20 minutes), circling Newport, lost in the maze of narrow one-way streets. This occurred at the end of a six-hour drive and I was hungry. Needless to say, I retired early, after the evening workshop at the conference.

Next morning, I ate, checked out of hotel number one, and calmly went to my car to drive to hotel number two (the organizers had not reserved enough room for Thursday night), and the conference, and OOPS, a left rear tire was flat. There were two nail holes, too far apart for one patch and too close for only one, and it was curtains for that tire. I calmly called AAA, brought in the tire to be repaired/replaced, purchased a used tire, good enough for the trip back, with which to replace the faulty one and that was that. The only fly in that ointment was that I've since discovered that I have only one usable snow tire and no good spares.

Aside from the above, it was a good trip. I visited an old friend from Maine that I hadn't seen in almost 20 years, and the conference was productive. I met people from all over the Northeast that work in two-year colleges. Some work in technical colleges; others work in community colleges. We got to share techniques, challenges and frustrations. There were also readings, poetry and prose. Everything one would expect of teachers of English.

FORTY-THREE YEARS AT GOULD--Retiring Gould controller Barbara Hulbert Merrill-Lapham was honored at a luncheon last week. Merrill-Lapham graduated as the school's valedictorian in 1955, and began her first week of employment at Gould immediately following graduation weekend. On learning of her intention to use her retirement to type the daily journals of her mother and grandmother, which date back to the 1800s and fill a trunk in her home, Headmaster Bill Clough presented Mrs. Merrill-Lapham with a computer given on behalf of the Gould Academy Board of Trustees. Merrill-Lapham is shown here (center) celebrating with former colleagues Sylvia Harrington and Alberta Merrill '51. Gould Academy trustees Alan B. Ordway '58, Lee F. Carroll '55 and James D. Konkel '81 joined members of the Gould faculty at the celebration.

The trip home was longer. I believe that I stopped at every rest area available on 193. There were snow showers through Franconia Notch and snow blanketing the trees in Twin Mountains. All in all, though, the trip was safe and not too eventful, but it sure was good to get home. The stove was warm, thanks to Siiri, and Tasha was literally jumping for joy at my return. Who could ask for a better homecoming? Do not ask me to drive that far, again, for a very long time, maybe even a lifetime. Haiku of the week:

Like a sad little boy,
Newt took his ball and went home.
The world rejoices.

From the

West Paris Public Library

West Paris Public Library will host an open house on Nov. 18 from 5 to 7 p.m. Library personnel and directors, along with Friends of the West Paris Library have planned this event, inviting area residents to learn what the library has to offer.

The building, built in the form of a miniature castle, is unique and contains a collection of old favorites, along with some of the most recently published works, both in the areas of adult reading and for youth. Computer facilities, including Internet access is available to the public. Youths under 18 years of age must have parental permission on file prior to operation. Guidance and instruction are available for persons not familiar with the computer or Internet use.

This library, dedicated in 1926, has been in continuous operation since its inception, serving West Paris and surrounding towns.

Friends of the Library will provide refreshments during the open house.

From the

Jackson-Silver Aux.

When the National Honor Society serves the annual Senior Citizen dinner at Telstar on Nov. 15, the turkeys, stuffing and gravy will have been prepared by the Auxiliary. They will also be serving a noon meal for the meeting of the Bethel Senior Citizens on Nov. 19 and another luncheon on Nov. 21 for the Oxford County Retired Teachers. The Woodstock/Greenwood Senior Citizens will have their luncheon on Dec. 3. Post and Unit will have their annual Christmas Party on Dec. 10. More information on that at a later date.

As in several past years, the Unit will be lighting the Christmas trees on the Post grounds with bulbs purchased in honor or memory of specific veterans, as requested by those who purchase the lights at $2 each. Again, Evanna Davis will be in charge of this project and she can be contacted at P.O. Box 2015, Norway, ME 04268 or at 743-0671. Orders may be taken by the Unit secretary, Olive Risko at 27 Felt Road, Bryant Pond, ME 04219 or at 665-2909. One of the trees will also have bulbs to honor or remember Auxiliary members or other relatives of veterans.

The Auxiliary wishes to express thanks to all veterans who have been willing to lay their lives on the line for the good of this country. How can we ever thank them, from those at Bunker Hill who first gave us the chance to have such a country as ours, to all those who have preserved it in the ensuing years? The junior members of Jackson-Silver Unit have made cards and sent them to all veterans at the Western Maine Veterans Home and at Togus thanking them. Good work, girls!

In 1958, he started a concrete business, which rapidly grew through the '60s. From 1960 to 1975, he carried on a "Hot Top" operation, and in 1974 began contract paving local state roads. In 1975, the business was sold to Cianbro Corp.
